Artist Statement

Known for his success as a conceptual advertising photographer, George Diebold is an artist who draws his inspiration from nature as well as man's creations.

His career has spanned more than four decades creating images for hundreds of international clients.

Trained by one of Life Magazine's foremost illustrators, and formally educated as an interior designer, George Diebold has blurred the line between his commercial, personal and fine art work.

Relying on his ability to see beyond the traditional boundaries of landscape photography, his location portfolios are an invitation to see our world in a uniquely interesting way.

In stark contrast, George's studio collection underscores his ability to extract stunning, thought provoking imagery from everyday objects.
